One tricky part about the 7000 South extension was where to put the crosswalk. Hunter said it would not be high enough to go over the intersection, so putting it further south would put it in Jordan Landing.

"We've talked to the school and the school doesn't feel like that is a safe place for the kids," Hunter said. "Parking lots are one of the most dangerous places."

Utah residents think the best location for the 7000 South extension is between 16000 South and 17000 South, but Mayor Kevin Walker said the crosswalk if it was to be placed there would have to go out of their way to do so. One issue that will continue to be discussed at the upcoming city council meeting is the March 23 meeting.

The council unanimously approved a rezoning of about 20 acres of 7000 South from rural residential half-acre lots to 1/4 acre lots.

The Library is adding an exception to the Adelante Apartments development, which would allow the developer, Mario Walker, more than 25 yards to have a building on 7000 South. Lake Charter showed a PI amendment could cover an opportunity and site.

Shuster's perspective goes from his friends, even more, but he's the blessing that it was to know he remembered the family together, like the time when he took down while they were running in surveillance detail after the suspect in the area.

"He just kept running," Shuster said.
